FOCUS

- Forest App - every time you focus on your writing session, you “grow” a digital tree. Enables you to block the use of select apps on your phone to really focus on your work.
- Evernote App - whenever an idea strikes, capture it in an Evernote, using your microphone, camera, or text. Great organization notebook features and search functions too.
- Redeeming Your Time book by Jordan Raynor - biblical principles for productivity and time management

PUBLISHING

- Jane Friedman’s book The Business of Being a Writer provides vital industry information and her blog articles on key publishing paths, book proposals, synopsis, queries, and agents are in depth and insightful.
- Reedsy.com - find searchable, concise listings of agents, literary magazines, publishers, writing contests to pitch to.
- How to Write a Book Proposal book by Larson and Rein
- Manuscript Wishlist - search specific wish lists of agents and editors to see if your book is suitable to that market.

BENEFITS OF COACHING FOR THE MARKETPLACE

- Accountability - develop strong work habits and the discipline needed to become a prolific author
- Insight - a book coach provides a sounding board and a mirror to your work at a objective distance you can’t achieve as an author immersed in your book. Clarity is key.
- Mindset - realign attitudes and assumptions to God’s priorities for you, your work, and the world based on accurate publishing industry information
- Encouragement - pitching or self-publishing can be a grueling and confusing process; having a supportive professional in your corner keeps you strong and business savvy.
